OUR THEME

Living, in its pure balance of estheticism and reason, is based on the art of socialization. Living is truly an art, an art dependent on mutual intercourse. Socialization, as we are aware of its value, is related to the natural understanding, the intercourse inherent in artful living; human lives are so constructed as to be distinctly molded by one another.

James M. Baldwin has said, "Schools are socializing institutions." They are then valuable in composing an integral part of the whole or full life. Being groups of individuals of diverse thought, schools assume a place in the ever changing, yet ever stable school of life, since with definite purpose and aim, they tend to learn and live life artfully; to know its values; to understand; and to find their place, their essential value in the magic circle of life; so not to become tangent to the whole, rounding influence; but, to flow functionally in the whole flux of encompassing life.

Schools are socializing. Each activity of school life represents one part of the whole play, "socialized life." The sum total, as we have endeavored to show in our Emblem through voicing not simply our own but educators' views, hinges on the fact that every angle of school is a percolating process of socialization.

Inherently, schools are socializing; they are socialized.

"The character which distinguishes a successful enterprise from others is management." —Engelhardt

SOCIALIZATION— A MESSAGE TO THE STUDENTS

In a great city people are the predominating part of our environment. The opportunities for socialization are numerous. A day seldom passes that a new social experience does not present itself. Each experience is met by most of you in a way approaching the norm for human society. Some meet the social problem in a way superior to the norm; some, in a way inferior. It is my candid opinion that every teacher should be able to meet people socially in a manner above the norm. By this I mean several things. Every person is entitled to courtesy even though it may be necessary to refuse a request with dignified courtesy. If your nature is genuinely sincere and your complex of impulses is directed toward your chosen work in life, simple courtesy will be sufficient. Your genuine nature will in itself be pleasing and convincing. If, on the other hand, you are not blessed with such a disposition, train yourself in courtesy-mechanisms for they will be needed to carry you past difficult problems. Some believe this procedure is hypocritical for it does not show our real selves. A deeper analysis, however, will show that we are not static and fixed and that practice in social action on a high plan may change us eventually to fit genuinely into a better social standard.

All the social functions connected with our school should help to achieve results in social enjoyment, social adjustment, and, finally, social courtesy. I am highly pleased with the accomplishments in these fields and look forward to a real social growth within the school. I am highly appreciative of the splendid help and sincere effort put forth by each of you for the Chicago Normal College.

J. O. Graham

ADMINISTRATION and FACULTY

DR. VERNE O. GRAHAM, President of Chicago Normal College; B. S. Ohio Northern University; Graduate work in School Administration, Ohio State University; A. M. University of Chicago; Ph.D. University of Chicago.

That Dr. Verne O. Graham has a sincere interest in Normal College students has been quite evident since his arrival at the college in September, 1936. In addition to being an excellent executive, Dr. Graham evinces a personal interest in the students. Our genial President may be seen often chatting and laughing with a Normalite as both are strolling through the halls.

Dr. Graham, a scientist of distinguished ability, conducts biological surveys during the summer. His special field of scientific investigation concerns the subject, "mushrooms." His outside interests pro tem comprise chairmanship of the Conservation Council of Chicago and membership in the Chicago Academy of Science.

MRS. EMMA FLEER MULLER, Dean of Chicago Normal College; Bachelor of Music, Marquette University; B. S. University of Chicago; 3 years of graduate work, University of Chicago.

Mrs. Emma Fleer Muller combines the happy faculties of intellect, independence, integrity, and interest in her position as dean of the Normal College. It is her efficient, wholehearted enthusiasm that makes for smoother, simpler, organized college life. The functional social activities such as the Senior Prom and the graduation ceremonies are skilfully guided by our capable dean. At Normal she formerly taught science. Her work at school as dean has extended into work for both the Illinois State and the National Deans' Associations.

WILLIAM G. WILSON, Assistant to the President of Chicago Normal College; Certificate in Industrial Arts, Chicago Normal College; B. S. Industrial Arts, Armour Institute; M. A. Education, University of Chicago.

Mr. Wilson's subtle sense of humor may readily be noticed by an observing eye. The possessor of that slow grin, that tie-up of wit and earnestness is no less a personality than "Uncle Bill" Wilson, assistant to the President. Mr. Wilson has been a Normal personage since 1925 when he came from Austin High, and commenced his duties as a member of the Industrial Arts Department; then he transferred to the Education Department, and finally to his present position over which he has gained complete mastery.

JUNE

"Are we going to have an annual?" "What a question! Of course we are!" "We really ought to start working on it now." "Didn't we have a grand time at the skating party?" These murmurs and ejaculations are gently but firmly quieted by President Mary Hollowed, as the class meeting is called to order.

This class did not bang their way into the Normalite as soon as they entered the school, but they have established a name and place for themselves.

One of their quickest ways of gaining attention was to give unique and unusual parties. Recently their Celebrity Party witnessed such important personages as the Quints, Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs, and Charlie McCarthy.

The enjoyment of their socials is so genuine that the members of the June Class of 1939 are still talking about the fun they had at the skating party which was held at the Chicago Ice Skating Arena.

Jayne Hamill serves the class as vice-president and is quite capable of handling a class meeting if the need should ever arise. The 400's trust their social correspondence and note-taking to Marie Bronski, while Jerry Healy is the keeper of the funds.

This group boasts of a number of notables in its midst—secretary and fee accountant of Student Council, the secretary and the librarian of the Normale Chorus, and many other active persons including artists, musicians, athletes, and members of the Normalite staff.

Going back just a short time—do you remember when this class presented a "Musical Revue" in the assembly?

FEBRUARY 1940

February, 1937 saw the entrance of a new class of freshmen. At the Big Sister and Big Brother Tea, the Seniors heartily attended just to see and become acquainted with their new underclassmen.

During their first year they elected their class officers. However, their constitution is a little different from those of the other classes; at their recent election, the secretary and the treasurer retained their positions. The president and the vice-president, Florence Kubik and Betty Johannes, were burdened with many other duties; consequently they were relieved of their tasks as class officers.

Secretary Nora Marie Walsh has been elected president; and treasurer Alice Ward tenaciously clings to the funds. The new officers are Herbert Lamp as vice-president, and Astrid Jordahl as secretary.

The Student Council representatives of the 300 Class, David Heller and Alex Dietz have been active in helping to care for the needs of the student body.

It has been quite generally rumored that the class party on January 13th, under the chairmanship of Miss Anne Wall, was a huge success.

COLLEGE GRADUATES

Coming to the Normal life with various views imbued by university and college life from Yale to Paris, from Chicago to Minnesota, the College Graduates are an interesting group of people because of their varied backgrounds. Normal life, while they live it, has oneness of purpose with myriads of moving thoughts and action. From all types of paths will emerge all types of futures, but while at Normal the main aim is preparation for a teaching career.

The C.G.'s form a wholesome part of the entire extracurricular life at the college. Their diverse interests establish them in clubs from the scope of Cui Bono, the most exclusive, to the Geography Club, the largest group, in which they occupy goodly positions.

As officers for 1937-38, we have Marguerite Tetlow as the general chairman, John Sheridan, section chairman of the C.G. I's, and Dick Jones, section chairman of the C.G. II's. Mary Geiger is the secretary, and John Breil, the treasurer.

JUNE

"The first twenty weeks are the hardest." And with this in mind, the members of the Class of June, 1940, enter upon their second semester's work—chemistry and all.

Beginning their activities, the class elected Student Council representatives, Marion Fitzpatrick and James Murphy.

In November the first class meeting was held, and the constitution was formally adopted. Then came an active campaign for the different class officers. The election was held in the middle of December, and the following people were the elated victors: Virginia Gormley, president; Clare Hennessey, vice-president; Margaret Kelleher, secretary; and Mary Rita Doyle, treasurer.

Now for the purely social side. The sections have held various small but successful parties. Plans for a fine class party promise a cheery good time for all.

March 31 was a red letter day for the 200's. They planned, executed, and made a genuine success of their program for the Geography Club. The Skit presented was a representation of the School Day. The applause which greeted the actors was justly deserved, and the prevailing opinion is that applause will, in all events, continue to pursue them in their next two years at Normal.

FEBRUARY

"Give me some men

Who are stout-hearted men—"

—might well be the theme song here at Normal, and many a coed may have been found wistfully whistling the refrain as she approached the portals of Normal. But now the skies are bluer, thanks to the freshman class of February, 1941, for with their advent came the glorious announcement of twenty-three enrolling males. In a school where the ratio of girls to boys is five to one, twenty-three more Normen are greatly appreciated. One Hundred's, Normal bows to you!

In the short time that these one hundred's have been at Normal, they have established themselves in the hearts of the instructors and the students; their prowess and ability, both in the classroom and on the athletic field, is admired and respected by the upper and lower classmen; and the warmth and sincerity of their ready friendliness is not such that is easily forgotten.

The 1938 Emblem staff has deviated in several ways from the traditions adhered to in the past few years. The size of the book has been increased to a nine by twelve; a general theme has been introduced in an endeavor to unify the entire publication; and the division pages are of the professional type, featuring still life photographs.

Another aim was to have more candid snaps of the students in action—asleep in class, eating lunch, yawning and sometimes even studying! It will be noticed that the section for student literary expression, which usually graces a few final pages of most yearbooks, has been supplanted by more candid shots of the students.

All these changes and improvements have been instituted by the staff under the capable guidance of Miss Turk, Mr.

Geilen, Mr. Cooney, and Mr. Swearingen. To Miss Turk fell the task of reading reams and reams of typewritten material. Mr. Geilen acted as final art critic as far as the general make-up of the publication was concerned, and he also wrote the understanding Dedication.

Mr. Cooney's practical knowledge of both printing and engraving helped to avert mishaps before they arose. Many hours were spent in planning the book, and in this important undertaking, Mr. Cooney's assistance was invaluable to the editors. Often, the solution to a seemingly insurmountable problem was, "Call Mr. Cooney."

Not one of these activities could have been carried on without a little financial backing. Mr. Swearingen was again in charge of the finances. He supervised the collection of subscriptions and advertising, and in the end, paid all the bills.

Mr. Morrow took last minute photographs, while Lloyd Austin diligently snapped the faculty candid.

It is hoped that the result—an Emblem which has a certain degree of lively informality as well as quiet dignity—will prove gratifying to all Normalites who so willingly subscribed.

PUBLICITY COMMITTEE

Attention!

All of you have had the opportunity of listening to smiling seniors plead for subscriptions. If it were not for these conscientious, hardworking souls, this scribe would not be bagging you. "Is your class going to support the Emblem?" was asked of everyone. Another famous quote was, "Are you going to support the Emblem?"

Wherever a Normalite tread, the Publicity people were near, tagging along and haunting the students for support. Postors smiling down from locker tops cheerfully advised on to "buy now—or else—" Other posters, made at moments of depression when everyone was wondering if, after all, perhaps the school would be Emblem-less, read just as cheerfully. The efforts of the Publicity Committee, forerunners and co-workers of the staff, have helped to make the Emblem.

FEATURES COMMITTEE

Wasted effort! No one ever reads the writing under the pictures. But if this is the case, it must be somewhat of a puzzle to explain the various pictures in the book. Tying up the book into one theme and providing unity throughout took hours of preparatory discussion. Finding suitable and enlightening statements of experienced educators required concentrated reading of otherwise skimmed professional material. This somewhat erudite task fell into the hands of the features group. The committee not only needed literary skill, but also the more mechanical processes of typing, copy reading, and organizing.

Cooperation and excellent leadership were factors in compiling material gathered from the different classes and organizations. Unlimited seemed the work, but undaunted was the ambition.

LAUNCHING THE EMBLEM

The Editorial, Publicity, Art, and Features Committees together with the faculty advisors cooperated to form a diligent General Staff. Months of planning by this staff have resulted in our Emblem.

The staff felt that an artistic layout of the book was the most important part of their work. Hours were spent in discussing modern trends. Debates were staged on the advantages and disadvantages of bleeding the numerous cuts. It was finally decided to use bleeds to achieve an air of informality on certain pages, but straight cuts were to grace the more sedate leaves.

Various kinds of type were viewed and opinions aired. The decision resulted in the use of the sans serif style which is dignified and yet does not give that "text book" effect to the sheet.

Another vital issue was the arrangement of the senior pictures. The general feeling was that senior pictures should be grouped so that each person should appear as an individual rather than just another spot among a great many other faces. Our senior horse shoe effect was the result.

Still another aim was to equalize the size of the pictures. That is, faculty, class officers, and individual senior pictures were to be approximately the same size. An apparent improvement toward a standard size will be noticed in these three divisions.

The art and photography committees selected the still life photographs for the division pages. These two groups also compiled and sorted the snap shots and finally arranged them on the various pages.

Working on the Emblem has given the entire staff a joy of accomplishment, and the reward for their efforts is expressed in the enthusiasm felt in creating this publication. The freshness and beauty of arrangement, the usual campaigning, the zest of all committees and sponsors made for a widening of experience and a deepening of personality which, in addition to the Emblem, have made the work worthwhile.

THE NORMALITE

Deadline! How much this word means to the Normalite and to all Normalites! It means the nearness of another issue of our favorite reading matter. We never quite know what we will find in these four pages and we are always a little pleased and sometimes a little disappointed when another new column sprouts from nowhere and takes the place of an older, more easily recognized one. Yes, the Normalite is in one of its vital stages of development. Every new staff brings to the paper fresh enthusiasm and inspiration, taking the record of their successors and adding more to a fine set of journalistic standards.

One of the special articles for which the readers peruse their favorite reading matter is the column, "Snap." This special feature contains intriguing accounts of chats in the corridors, Saturday evening dates, who is going with whom, and "Have you heard?"

The latest improvement on the Normalite was in the form of new headlines and new captions. Employed first as an experiment, the new type proved so successful and was so well liked by both the students and the faculty that it has been incorporated as a permanent feature of the improved Normalite. Then, too, we have a few new cuts to add an attractive element to the paper.

Every week, reams of papers, sometimes the result of interviews, sometimes fruits of creative ability, and at times, reviews of plays, are turned in. Maybe the typing is poor; maybe the grammar needs correction; and perhaps the journalistic style is crude, but they must be turned in.

To the editors of all four pages go the papers and all the worries connected with them. Usually, the articles are haphazardly thrown together. Making this material fit the plan of the page for the week and rewriting it in a style certain to please their fellow Normalites is only a fraction of the editors' work. The captions must be interesting enough to catch the students' eyes. Articles have to be cut; others must be peddled.

But the editors love the bustle and hurry and the thrill of getting copy to the printers. From there on—proof-reading the galleys, pasting articles to fit plans, wracking brains for words to make "heads" fit and the final checking on Saturday mornings. Monday's Normalite brings to the staff a sigh of satisfaction, but circulation, advertising and business have just begun.

The reporters, of a necessity, are constantly on the alert with never a let-down. They are responsible for a living part of the school—Normalite.

Three Cheers for Student Council! For never did a group of hard workers deserve a boost as do these loyal champions of Student Rights. Their activities are many and varied, as well as important. Among them this year was the revising of the constitution so that it more nearly fits the needs of the student body. This revised constitution is considered quite an improvement over the old one.

Another appreciable service rendered is that in connection with teas. For some time the china supply in the Household Arts Room has been inadequate and was becoming somewhat cracked and chipped. In conjunction with the Junior College, Student Council bought a new supply of plates and cups. The ware is heavy and durable and the plates have a section for holding the cup in place.

Student Council is divided into numerous committees which are presided over and kept running smoothly by the capable supervision of that committee of all committees, the Committee on Committees.

Through its Lunchroom Committee the Council is making an earnest effort to relieve the congestion during the lunch hour. Various experiments have been tried and at present the cash registers have been moved away from the food counter in an effort to prevent jamming in the line.

The Party Group has supervised the Welcome Teas, the Big Sister and Big Brother Parties, the County Teas, and the Installation Tea.

The Social Hour faction plans the bimonthly socials, and, with the generous assistance of the Art Department, sponsors the Christmas Frolic and the Spring Festival.

Although most students are unaware that Student Council supplies the soap and towels, the Student Service Committee efficiently looks after this matter as well as the supervision of the Women's and Men's Lounges, and the Silence Room.

The Student Advisers Committee sees that the Freshmen become acquainted with buildings by conducting tours on the first day of the semester. Later this group sees to it that the incoming people get their class organized properly.

The Auditing Committee checks on the Treasurer's book of each of the organizations. This is done at the end of each semester.

The Nominating Committee selects the candidates for the coming semester's officers.

Another very important branch is the Book Exchange Committee. It handles the second hand books at a small fee to the owner and sells them at his price.

The erstwhile fame of Normal, and the important events occurring here, are made known through the Publicity Committee.

Thus are students of the Chicago Normal College watched over and cared for by their foster parent, Student Council. This is their every need tended to for the benefit and betterment of all concerned.

CUI BONO

To those collegians of psychological inclination, Normal offers Cui Bono. This organization is the type that all students wish to join since it is the only honor society in school. The Psychology Department, in sponsoring this group, is conscious of its specialized nature and has restricted membership with the precedent of an invitational system. Cui Bono reserves this privilege of limitation in the hope of furthering psychological interests.

Cui Bono, the club's title, translated from the Latin, implies "for what good?" Through research and study the Club endeavors to open fuller meaning of life from the view point of psychology. To members who have been outstanding from a participation aspect, pins are awarded annually.

The pins of Cui Bono bear a significant meaning, being composed of a key, a question mark, and a lamp. The key signifies the opening of the door to knowledge; the question mark represents the questioning attitude of the educational mind; the lamp is indicative of the light of knowledge in the search for truth.

The program of the club this year was devoted to the study of juvenile delinquency. Excursions were made to the Institute of Juvenile Research, the Juvenile Court, the Psychological Museum at Lewis Institute, and to the Parental School of Chicago.

Guest speakers on the subject of study included Lieutenant Harry Costello of the Chicago Crime Prevention Bureau, Mr. John J. De Boer of Chicago Normal College, Superintendent William Page of the Parental School, and Dr. Grace Munson of the Bureau of Child Study.

Meeting on alternate Thursdays and boasting of an extremely large membership, the Geography Club continues, year after year, its pleasant task of imparting knowledge in an interesting and enjoyable manner. The club aims to create, in the students, an understanding attitude which will envelope all phases of world geography. The customs and problems of foreign countries are discussed or dramatized; lectures are given on world tours; every effort is exerted to awaken new interests in the minds of the college students.

The semester of September to February saw Marion Clifford at the helm, ably assisted by June Kresge, vice-president; Mary Ann Harding, secretary; and Catherine Nolan, treasurer. The latter served the club so well as treasurer that she found herself firmly established as president during the term of February to June. She, in turn, has been assisted by Joan Muldowney, vice-president; Lucille Jacobson, secretary; and Virginia Carlson, treasurer. Each of the officers is just as cheerful and witty as Dr. Branom, the jovial sponsor of the club without whose presence the club would lose one of its chief characters and some of its natural verve and color.

Outside speakers are always welcome, especially if they lecture on the customs of various countries. The members apparently enjoy absorbing and collecting a knowledge of geography in this interesting fashion.

The climax of the semester's program is a party for members only—given in January. June, however, sees the advent of preparations for a picnic. These special events are arranged by the four officers under the supervision of Dr. Branom.

At the party in January, the program centered about the dances of different countries. Scotland was represented by advocates of the Highland Fling, while the Big Apple was displayed as being representative of our own United States. That constituted a beginning after which the folk dances of various countries were demonstrated.

Fun is the keyword of the annual June picnic. Refreshments characteristic of a typical Spring outing are served in Hamilton Park; this site has been selected as the appropriate setting for the Club's annual celebration. Dr. Branom serves as director of games guaranteed to please all. And everyone regretfully leaves Hamilton Park thinking of all the food they have eaten, how they have played too much baseball, the races they have run, and the hoarseness which will probably affect them the following day because of all the singing they have done. But even more urgent than all that—something remains uppermost in their minds—the anticipation of next year's picnic.

Since so many people participate in the activities of this club, there are many educational, delightful, and entertaining programs to be mentioned. Do you remember the Irish playlet given in commemoration of St. Patrick's Day? And the two programs presented by the ambitious and entertaining CG's?

The 200's earned many a laugh and applause when they enacted an hilarious School Day Skit. Then in a more serious, but equally interesting vein, Mr. Henke gave an account of his travels, and Mr. Steiner described some English institutions.

The Geography Club is definitely the most friendly club at Normal, where the members learn their geography in the best and most interesting manner.

THREE CHEERS FOR GEOGRAPHY

I.

Three cheers for Geography
Best club of C.N.C.
In all you do we pledge our loyalty.
Our programs are the best
They've sure got punch and zest
We're learning things from north to south from east to west.
To China town we've been
And Spanish folks we've seen
Around this great wide world we're travelling.
Come one and join our fun in the "land of the sun"
And wear a smile every one.

II.

Come on and join the game,
And let us add your name
To Normal's great G-E-O club of fame;
We never lose our pep,
We've got the biggest rep
Of all the clubs of Normal Prep.
Rah! Rah! Rah! Rah!
Now harken to our call
And help us fill our hall,
With peppy members we can never fail;
So let's give a cheer
For this club has no peer—
Rah! Rah! GEOGRAPHY!

GEOGRAPHY CLUB SONG

Tune: SMILES

I.

There are clubs that make you happy,
There are clubs that make you proud,
That you really are a loyal member
Of such a lively, peppy crowd.
There are clubs where something's always stirring,
And each member is a pal for you.
And the club that meets my every notion
Is the Geography Club so true.

II.

We learn about the countries
In an entertaining way,
And just how the Eskimos and Indians
Spend each moment of the lifelong day;
Now this knowledge is presented
In a way that always will please you,
Oh! we enjoy and love our club sincerely,
And we'll always be True Blue.

FELLOWSHIP CLUB

On the Fellowship Roll Call may be found the name of every student in the Chicago Normal College, for enrollment in the College is, automatically, enrollment in Fellowship. The aims of this large club is to promote a spirit of fellowship and philanthropic interest.

The Club maintains a Milk Fund at the Hamline School through the entire school year. The purpose of this activity is to provide milk for the children who are unable to afford such a "luxury." The money for this enterprise is provided for by weekly fudge sales, and flower and Shamrock sales at the College. Last fall a fashion show was inaugurated which helped the fund so much that it was repeated this semester.

Previous to this Thanksgiving, baskets were given each year to the needy of the neighborhood. These baskets included meat, potatoes, vegetables, fruit, cake, tea, coffee, milk, flour, and bread. The canned contributions were made from the larders of the Normal students' homes, while all perishable goods were provided for from money contributed by the students. This spring, however, there was a change. Instead of the baskets being given at Thanksgiving they were given at Easter Time.

Two annual social affairs are held, usually in the form of teas and entertainments, which the majority of the students attend.

The officers who served Fellowship this year were Jeanette LaGiglia, president; Elsie Johannes, vice-president; Betty Johannes, secretary; and Lucille Wall, treasurer.

SPECIAL CHOIR

Melodic strains of "no-noo-nee-nay-nahs" float through the third floor corridors, Monday, fourth hour. This represents Miss Taheny's special way of getting the girls' voices working in an appropriate manner to do some plain and fancy singing.

The choir's contribution to the Christmas program is always the outstanding work of the year. Their early morning singing on the stairs of the first floor gets each and every member of the College into the true Christmas spirit. Then the musical assembly including solos, mixed voices, soprano voices, and antiphonal singing is the climax to an inspirational day of music.

In this group of trained voices we can also find trios, quartettes, sextettes, and octettes that are ready, at short notice, to furnish music for organizations such as the Parent Teachers Association, civic clubs, and graduation programs.

Section programs have brought to light some very fine vocal talent in the Normal College. The persons possessing these talents are encouraged to join the choir where they will receive special attention.

The president of this enterprising organization is Anne Dockery; Linnea Larson, noted for her ability as an accompanist, is the choir's vice-president; and Anna Hultquist is secretary-treasurer.

Library work, including the recording of books, is handled by Joan O'Malley, Mary Clarke, and June Lanky.

MUSIC APPRECIATION CLUB

Almost anything may happen at Normal lately. "William Tell" has found a "New Apple Tree," and "The Ride of the Valkyries" is running a close second to "Loch Lomond."

Perhaps this all sounds a bit confusing, but students of Chicago Normal College did not find it so; for theirs is the privilege of going to the Music Appreciation Club, whether musically inclined or not, where listening to good music for pure enjoyment is the motive which prompts members to attend. Informality is the theme of the organization and the programs are diversified in nature, ranging from heavy classical selections to those of modern swing bands.

NORMALE CHORUS

Do you remember the young men who were heard carolling in the halls during the Christmas season? They were selected from one of the men's organizations, the Normale Chorus. This Chorus is the men's singing society of the Normal College. They meet fourth hour on Fridays when they are directed and assisted by Miss Taheny.

This organization is comparatively new, but it has already been established as an integral part of the extra-curricular work in music. The most outstanding event on their calendar is the assistance they render at the Christmas program. They tour the building carolling, and they play an invaluable part in the Christmas Assembly.

Joe Sirchio, as president; Mark Jehn, Gerald O'Connor, and John Ryan, as the other officers have done much for the improvement of this new organization.

ORCHESTRA

Under the capable baton of Miss Frances Peikert, the Chicago Normal College Orchestra swung along to a final tone of brilliant crescendo.

Starting the year 1937-8 under the musical leadership of Genevieve Reynolds, president, Eleanor Lowensen, secretary-treasurer, and Warren French, librarian, the college instrumentalists—presto—marched on the road to musical glory.

LITTLE THEATRE

"Curtain Call!" And every loyal member of Little Theatre knew that the meeting, held every other Tuesday at 3:30 P.M. in the Auditorium, had begun. Such meetings were devoted to an explanation and demonstration of acting technique, reviews of current plays, and lectures on the history of the drama.

Plays enacted were, "Wurzel Flummery" by A. A. Milne, and "Stolen Goods."

The orchestra is the mainstay of graduations and assembly programs as well as a means of social and spiritual enjoyment for Normalites. This year its musical repertoire included "Andante Cantabile" by Tschaiikowsky, "March of the Bayards" by Halvorsen, "Anitra's Dance" from the Peer Gynt Suite by Grieg, "Largo" by Handel, "Pomp and Circumstance" by Elgar, and "March from Athalia" by Mendelssohn.

A party at Christmas, a January luncheon in honor of the graduates, and a theatre party, February 18, at the Goodman Theatre where "King Lear" was the attraction, were a few of the many activities enjoyed.

The following officers, with the assistance of Miss Jacobs, planned most of this entertainment: Mildred Sepaniak, president; Marie Bronski, vice-president; Mary Geiger, secretary; and Gerald O'Connor, treasurer.

SCIENCE CLUB

Small club? Yes, but the membership is a good representation of the entire student body. At their meetings, in addition to the business of the Science Club, a speaker is generally presented and plans are made for field trips. Some of the speakers have been Mr. Leo Herdeg, Dr. Earl Sherff, Miss Marie Love, Mr. Harold Borin, and Mr. Tom Draine.

Members of the club, either singly or in groups, make trips to places of scientific interest in and near Chicago, and make reports of their observations at the meetings. Some of the places visited this year were the Garfield Park Conservatory, Brookfield Zoo, and the Adler Planetarium.

Marjorie Ballinger, Milton Schular, and John Ryan, as the officers of the club, are directly responsible for the quiet efficiency which characterizes this organization.

MATH CLUB

Members of the Math Club this past semester have discovered that mathematics may be connected with almost anything. Their means of establishing this fact was through a series of lectures, demonstrations, and a bulletin board. In connection with business, their activities included a demonstration from the Burrough Adding Machine Company.

For the scientifically-minded individuals there were lectures on the slide rule.

Following is the list of officers for February to June, 1938. President, Sarah Nadler; vice-president, Louis Wagner; secretary, Mary Goldstein; treasurer, Mary Collins; publicity chairman, Nathan Greenberg; social chairman, Lillian Kowal; and program chairman, Mary L. Manthey.

KINDERGARTEN PRIMARY CLUB

"Let's make Room 203C look like our headquarters." With these words barely uttered, the Kindergarten Primary Club went to work. One of their most important achievements was the redecoration of Room 203C. It was changed from an average classroom to a room that is expressive of the Kg. Spirit. It has become a room with a satisfying and pleasing atmosphere; Room 203C is now well worth praising.

All students of the small Kg department are members of this jolly club which is sponsored by Miss Olson and Miss Willy. The Kg's may be few in number, but all Normal is conscious of their presence due to the fact that they are genuinely active and enthusiastic.

Once a month, Gene Houser calls the meeting to order. Pauline Sauer reads the minutes of the last meeting and Margaret Withrow prepares her treasurer's report while the two vice-presidents, Mabel Ross and Mary McCormick, sit by, ready to serve in any way possible.

At these monthly meetings, programs feature the talents of the Kg students, although the club is occasionally fortunate enough to have one of its advisors or some other person in its field address the group on some interesting professional topic.

The Kg's have a habit of planning and actually consummating some intriguing affairs. They have parties and teas, but they are just a little different; they show a certain amount of ingenuity and variety.

One of their most charming affairs is the Christmas Tea. Many alumnae can be seen at this tea. Their largest celebration, however, is the Spring Tea honoring the June graduates of the Kindergarten Primary Department.

During the past season, 1937-1938, the Women's Athletic Association has been the sponsor of a great many activities. Tournaments were held in most of the sports to foster an interest in the games and to determine the outstanding performers in each field.

Intramural contests were staged in the three major sports, captainball, volleyball, and baseball. Captainball was under the general direction of Anne Harty. More than 240 girls took part in the tournament which culminated with section 132 as winner. The volleyball tournament was led by Marion Clifford. After two months of enthusiastic play, section 312 emerged as the winner. Baseball fans were given a chance to show their superiority during the latter spring months. Led by Marion Roach, many teams participated in the tournament.

Early in the semester W.A.A. played hostess to the entire school at a unique party. Gay balloons, circus ruffs, and tall hats worn by the officers and board members added to the circus atmosphere. Pink lemonade and penny tickets to the various games further carried out the "Big Top" illusion. At this event the new freshmen were introduced to the activities of W.A.A. and the rest of the student body were reminded of the fun which this organization offers to the women. Volleyball, table-tennis, and badminton were featured in the large gymnasium while refreshments were served in the dining room.

An interesting part of the semester's activity has been concerned with inter-school play-days. Late in April Normal traveled to North Central College for a day of sports. Mixed games of volleyball and baseball helped the girls get better acquainted with the students of the other colleges. On the same day an intercollegiate swimming meet was staged in which Normal took second place honors. Patricia Heekin was the bright star of Normal by winning the breast stroke and the diving contest.

At a return play day, North Central and Wilson Junior College were invited to Normal. Under the direction of Kay Fraser, the group was divided into mixed teams for a strenuous game of volleyball.

An innovation during the Spring semester was the tea for all W.A.A. representatives. May Doyle, president, explained many of the ideas she received while attending a convention in Iowa. The board members each told of the activities in her particular sport.

The semester's activities were concluded with the awarding of letters and pins at an assembly program. Miss Agnes Jones of Northwestern University gave a lecture and demonstration on the principles of the modern dance at this annual event.

Much of the success of W.A.A. has been due to the co-operation of the board members and its officers and to the excellent counsel of its advisors, Miss Byrne, Mrs. Cochran, and Miss Robinson. This board and the advisors meet every two weeks to discuss problems that arise and to plan future events in W.A.A.

SPORT MANAGERS

The sports managers are important cogs in the W.A.A. machine. These managers, who are chosen in the beginning of each semester because of their ability in sports and because of executive efficiency, act as an executive board to guide the general affairs of W.A.A. Besides this, each manager is directly responsible for the success of a definite activity. If she is manager of a major sport, she must pilot that activity through a tournament; help select the referees or umpires; post team percentages; and arouse interest in her sport with unique publicity on the W.A.A. bulletin board. If, on the other hand, she directs a sport in which individuals may achieve success she must plan and direct the tournament and see that plenty of publicity is given to it.

One of the student managed activities this year was an intramural swimming meet in which every section in school participated. Various events were planned and executed by Ruth Zimmerman, genial manager of the Aqua Norms. From the keen competition emerged five recognized winners.

Patsy Heekin, outstanding diver and swimmer, was judged the individual star, while section 642, comprised of Reva Solomon, Mary O'Connor, Liberty Daniel, and Edith Lembach, was acclaimed the winning section team.

Among the other contests launched by these managers were two badminton tilts, a volleyball tourney, a table tennis doubles conflict, an intramural golf match, a tennis doubles battle, a Normal league baseball series, and a captainball contest.

The culmination to the hiking season is the Dunes Hike. The men receive invitations to this event, while the women must pass the qualification—namely, participation in four previous hikes.

It is evident that the sports managers shoulder a great deal of work, but the experience received in the planning, organization, and execution of the individual sports seasons is invaluable to each successful manager.

ALL STAR TEAMS

The ambition of every woman athlete at Normal is to win a berth on the all-star teams. These teams are selected at the end of each tournament by a committee composed of faculty and students. Each section is permitted to send several representatives to the "try-outs", and every aspirant is given a fair chance to show just what she can do. The committee gradually eliminates the players, until just the best athletes are left—comprising the All-Star team and the second team.

ARCHERY CLUB

The Archery Club meets fourth hour every Monday under the direction of Miss Robinson. One half of the gym floor suddenly becomes a haven for the archers; numerous targets are lined along one of the walls; the girls take their respective places facing the gold, red, blue, white, and black stands; and then the air is filled with flying arrows. At first, the arrows seldom strike the target, but by the end of the season, many find their way to the gold spot. Membership in this group is limited in order that each member can have ample time and opportunity to become very proficient in the use of the bow and arrow.

LIFE SAVING CORPS

The Life Saving Corps also meets on Monday during club hour, under the direction of Mrs. Cochran. The purpose of this club is to promote the study of life saving and water safety according to the American Red Cross Standards. Using each other as subjects, the women practice the various holds needed in rescue work. Resuscitation methods are also experienced in this organization. Many of Normal's swimmers have received their Senior Life Saving award as a result of their work in this Corps.

MEN'S ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION

Because of the fact that every man in Normal is automatically a member of the Men's Athletic Association upon his enrolling in the school, and because the men of Normal are actively interested in the field of athletics and general school welfare, the activities and undertakings of this group are always more than mildly successful.

The sports and other enterprises sponsored by the M.A.A. are many and varied. This fall, for the first time in many years, a swimming team was added to the list. Beginning in the fall, intramural tournaments are sponsored. These follow each other in logical order culminating in a soft ball tournament in the latter days of the school year. The singles and doubles tennis tournaments which begin the fray are followed closely by touch football, basket ball, volleyball, ping-pong and badminton.

Intercollegiate sports are by no means excluded from the scene. Basketball, baseball, tennis, and swimming teams were put into the field last year and the winners of the coveted positions on the various squads were awarded major monograms.

Along with this array, the organization presented an assembly in April which dealt with Lew Fonseca's latest baseball film "Batter Up." This bit of informative entertainment was enthusiastically received by the students. This film was secured through the efforts of Mr. Kripner, Normal athletic director and co-ordinator of Junior College physical education. The program was further enhanced by the awarding of monograms by Dr. Graham.

Coming over into another phase of entertainment, the Men's Athletic Association sponsored an "open house" early in the spring of the year. This occasion was for the purpose of initiating their newly acquired men's lounge. The demonstration was followed by a social affair at which dancing and refreshments were enjoyed.

The year's activity culminated in a banquet at which baseball and tennis monograms were awarded.

Much of the success of the association is due to the willing and helpful cooperation and aid of Mr. Swearingen, their sponsor, Mr. Kripner, head of the physical education department, and Mr. Rusk, baseball coach.

BASKETBALL

The 1937-1938 basketball season opened with only two of the previous season's regulars returning for action on the court. These were Healy, who was elected this year's captain, and Jehn.

Faced with the necessity of filling up the vacant positions of Kennedy, Petersen, and Wallace, and further handicapped by the loss of Koscielniak and Dempsey, Coach Kripner began practice early in October and announced the starting lineup of Healy, Gottfried, Kiley, Jehn, and Glasow. The first game was played against the Alumni on November 17 and the last against Concordia February 23.

In the matter of statistics, the team won .444 of their games, most of these being won in the second term of the school year. Individual scoring honors were taken by Al Gottfried, closely trailed by one point by Mark Jehn. Gottfried was the only one year man in the starting lineup and Joe Sirchio finished the season robustly in a starting position.

At the beginning of the second semester, a number of pleasing prospects entered the school—the most notable of the newcomers was Mulcahy. Others who show considerable promise are King, O'Brien, Hayes, Bennish, Sherr, Novak and Egan.

Basketball has always been one of Normal's favorite sports largely because of the fact that Coach Kripner and his predecessors have set as their goal the production of winning, hardfighting teams. The current season was considered a success chiefly because it was the first one in which North Park was defeated by Normal during the past three years.

BASEBALL

The 1938 baseball squad began the season with two great questions in their minds. Who would fill in the positions caused by graduation and how would the new coach be? The latter question was easily answered by "swell" as the boys took to the diamond under the guidance of Mr. Rusk, Normal's newest addition to the physical education department.

The first question was a harder one to answer, for all boys were given an equal chance and the returning regulars were notified that they would have to scrap hard for their jobs in order to hold them. The absence of Wallace, Kinny, Kennedy, 1937 captain Koscielniak, Petersen and Dempsey, however, left a good many positions wide open, the most notable of which was the catching one.

Bill Konrad and Eddie O'Brien along with Hayes signified that they would try to fill the pitching vacancy left by Wallace. Konrad had seen service last year and received the starting assignment. In general, the opening lineup was: Konrad, Jehn, Goodwin, Draine, Connelly, Smith, Kulieke, and King. Mark Jehn was elected captain of the '38 team.

The season's play began, as in previous ones, in the gymnasium with the boys ironing out mistakes in form under the discerning eyes and helpful suggestions of Coach Rusk. The team took to the outdoors about the first week of April and, two weeks later, opened their schedule at Hamilton Park with a game against Morgan Park.

TENNIS TEAM

This year, as in others, the tennis activity began in the fall. Captain Glasow and Draine captured the doubles crown of the school and Glasow won the singles against Draine in the finals.

With the advent of spring, a call was sent out for prospective members of the 1938 team and was answered by both veterans and rookies. Last year's three lettermen, Ryan, Schular, and Glasow, together with Rohatynski, Dolnick, and Perz, had seen previous action for the green and white, while Lifschutz, Kupris, Byrne, Gottfried, and Doyle as well as Waser were among the newcomers to prove their merit.

The season's schedule included Concordia, Morton, Wilson, Wright, and Armour Tech. Final play took place in the state tournament held on Morton's courts.

SWIMMING TEAM

The swimming team, organized during the second semester of the school year, opened its schedule with a rousing third place finish in the state meet. Edward Mueller, a 100, won the backstroke championship in a crack field in the time of 1:09.7. Other members of the meet winners were Thiel, Bernstein, and Kupris.

As the season progressed, such strong additions as Kiley and Bevan strengthened the lineup considerably. The first regular dual meet was staged with Morton and the Normal boys lost in a tough finish. With a little polishing, the team should show up strong next year with practically all of the performers returning to school in the fall. The squad owes much of its success to the expert coaching of Athletic Director Kripner.

SPORTS CLUB

For the past two years, the Sports Club has been a vital organization in the lives of Normal men. Like its close brother, the Men's Athletic Association, the club is composed entirely of the men of the school.

The differentiation between the two aforementioned organizations is a minute one, however. Like the Men's Athletic Association, the men of the school are automatically members of the club. For the most part, the sports club seems to concentrate on intramural sports while the Men's Athletic Association centers its attention upon finding and playing outside opposition.

This year, under the able direction of president William Kiley, rousing intramural tournaments were executed. With the conclusion of the tennis tournaments, the boys of the school took up the interesting pastime of touch football. After a series of contests, winter set in and the final standings found the 200's and the C.G.'s tied for top honors on the ladder.
